

2019 Summer Program – College Intern

About Safe Passage Project

Safe Passage Project provides free lawyers to 800 child refugees who are being deported.

Many children embark alone on the long and dangerous journey to the United States seeking protection. They are fleeing trauma such as gang violence and recruitment, abuse, and sexual assault. In 2017, the federal government reported apprehending over 40,000 immigrant children seeking entry to the United States. Closer to home, the New York Immigration Court has more than 15,000 cases involving children on its docket.

Immigrant children are not afforded free legal representation by the government, regardless of their age. As a result, more than half of immigrant children must go through immigration proceedings without the aid of a lawyer. Unable to effectively argue their claim for the legal protections they may qualify for, more than 80% of these children are issued deportation orders. To many, this means returning to the danger from which they fled.

This is where Safe Passage Project steps in, providing free legal assistance to these refugee and immigrant children in New York City and Long Island who are facing removal despite their strong legal claim to stay in the United States.

About the College Intern Role

We seek college interns to be an exciting addition to our team of lawyers, paralegals, and social workers. Interns will be assigned either one or two supervisors, have regular check-in meetings, and have two designated feedback sessions with their supervisors. We will offer a day-long comprehensive orientation at the beginning of the summer to give support and guidance for us to have a great summer. Cases may involve Special Immigrant Juvenile Status, asylum, U non-immigrant status, and DACA renewals. The work may involve supporting staff attorneys who are directly representing children or help guide volunteer lawyers who take on an individual case.

Responsibilities

Interns receive hands-on experience with a variety of tasks. These may include office assistance (such as organizing case files, translating from Spanish to English, and filing court documents), screening immigrant children (such as participating in client meetings and helping with Immigration Court or Family Court appearances), and assisting with our legal work. Many of our cases involve Special Immigrant Juvenile Status, which often requires obtaining a guardianship order from Family Court about how the child is abused, abandoned, or neglected. Many cases also involve asylum, which often requires gathering proof why it is dangerous for the child to return to El Salvador, Guatemala, or Honduras and working with experts who conduct psychological evaluations. Interns must take ownership of their projects, track their assignments, and provide feedback to their supervisors.
